Young Professionals Conference Budapest 2018: presentation summaries

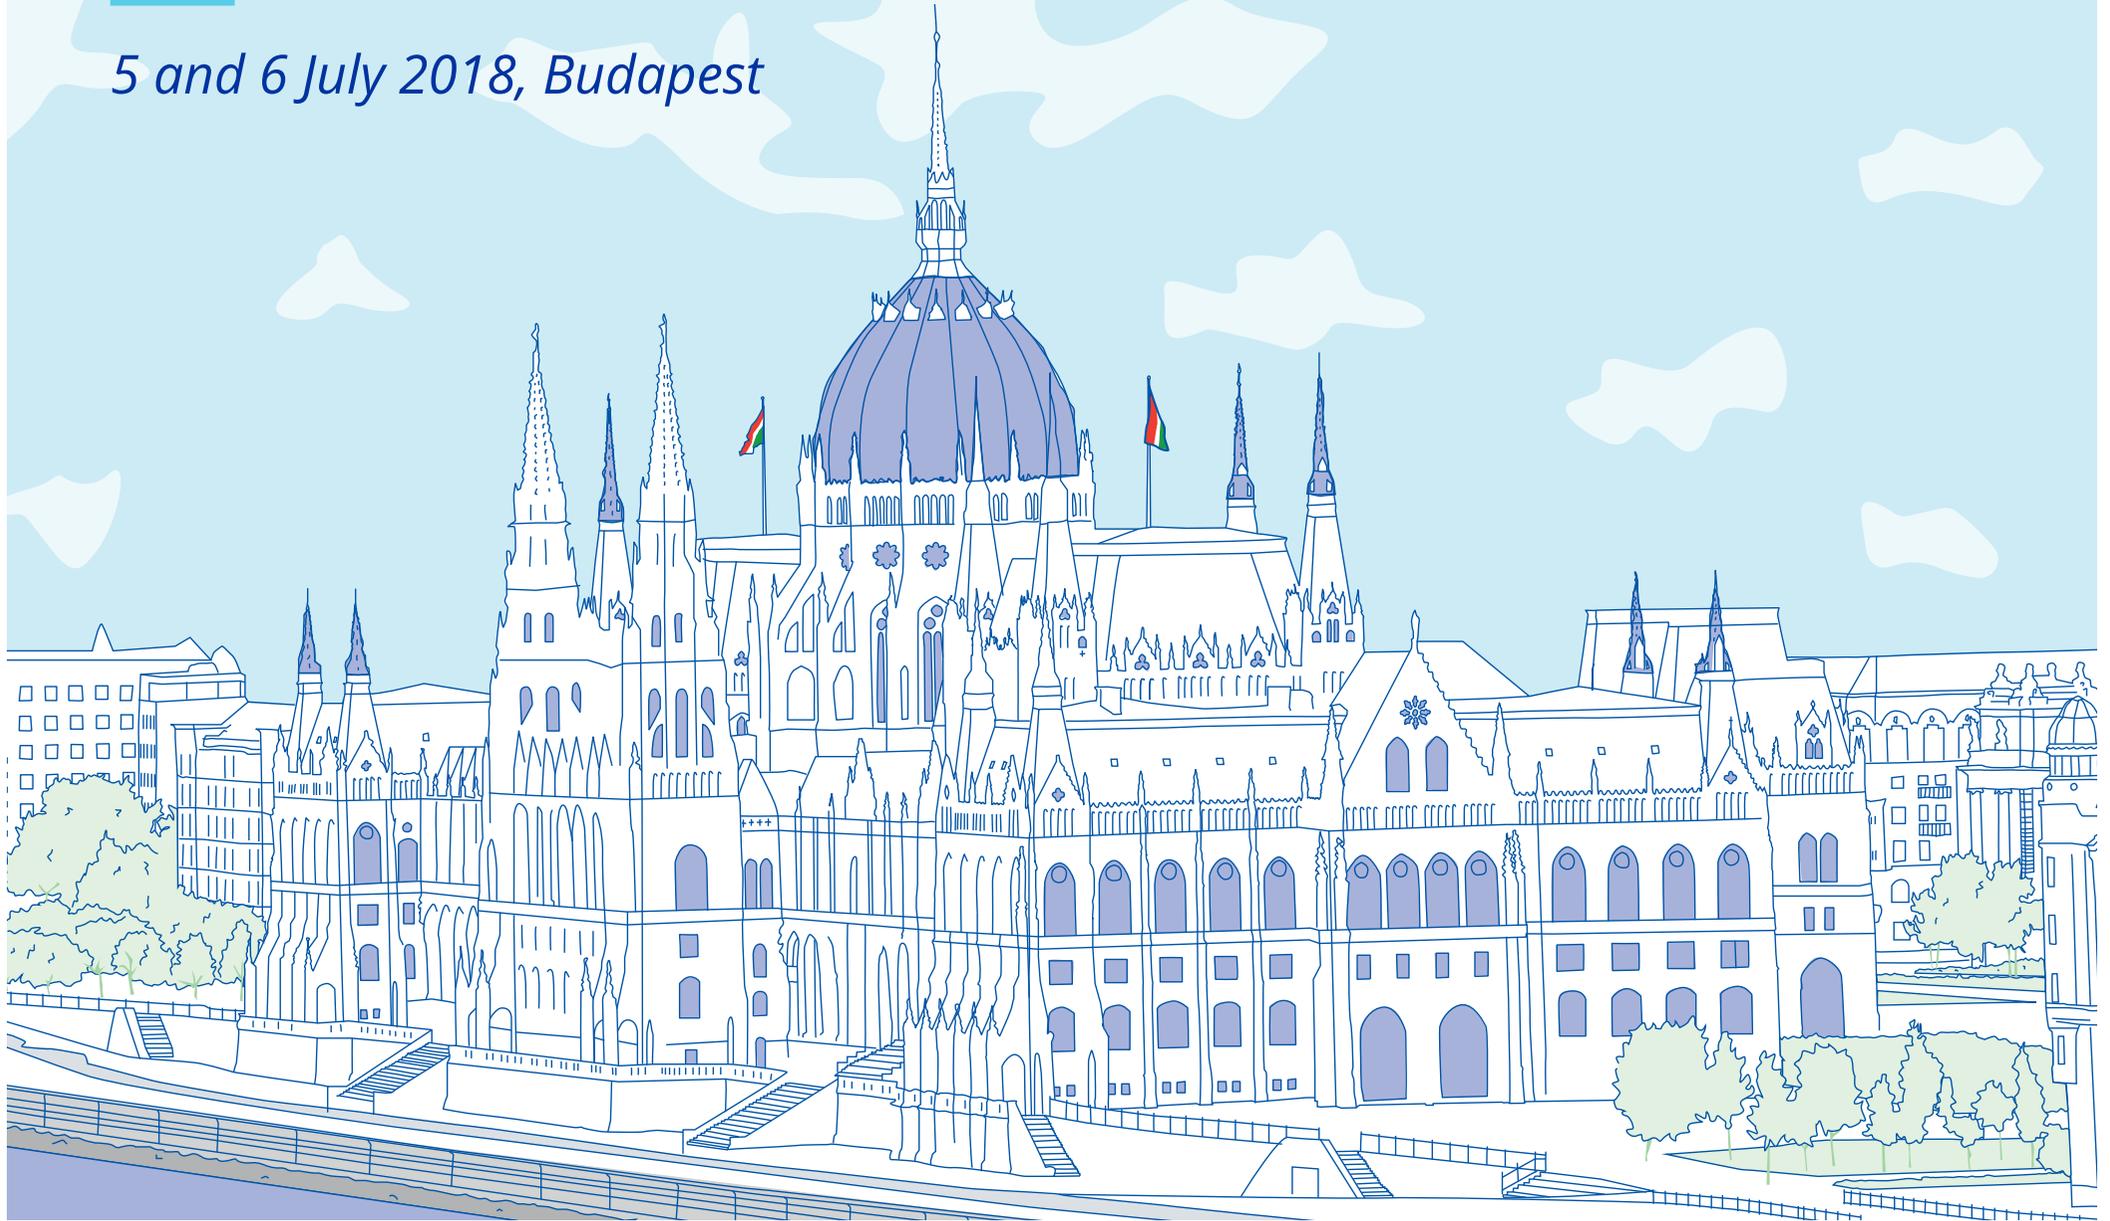

INREV's eleventh Young Professionals Conference Budapest brought together the next generation of industry leaders, two-thirds of whom were attending for the first time. Technology and data were high on the agenda, but also the blurring of sectors with a particular look at co-living and co-working.

The conference was moderated by Iryna Pylypchuk, Fidelity International and Peter Hayes, PGIM Real Estate. Over the course of the conference there was evidence that the industry is changing. A shift towards a solution-driven market is occurring. Real estate has to offer more to the end user. And the industry must look beyond resilience, and actively embrace change.

We would like to thank our sponsors: a.s.r. real estate, CBRE Global Investors, and Landmark Partners.
